Weekly Update

Today and tomorrow are the last two days of October; if your child has not read for 380 minutes this month, please encourage them to reach that goal in these next two days! Any student who reaches 380 minutes for the month of October will earn a Book-It certificate for a free personal pan pizza from Pizza Hut! We will have a new goal set for the month of November.

We were busy little bees in third grade this week, even with it being only three days long! We took both the language arts and mathematics beginning of the year benchmark assessments in Pivot Insect. These assessments are a great tool to help students prepare for what the assessments will look like during ISTEP and IREAD.

We learned about possessive nouns during language arts class time and finished up our unit on perimeter and polygons in math. We will begin another story in our Journeys reading series next week as well as begin unit 4 in math. Unit 4 of math will be all about multiplication and strategies we can use to solve multiplication problems.
