Weekly Update

Two days left for completing 380 minutes of reading in the month of January! Just a heads up for the upcoming month, we will be participating in the WSBT I Love to Read Challenge. This will only require one extra part from you! Students are still expected to read for at least 20 minutes each night for homework. Once your child has completed this reading, typically you write down the number of minutes they have read and your initials on our classroom calendar. Now, please write that exact same information on the extra February calendar you will be provided with! Unfortunately we will have two February calendars to fill out, but that is the only extra step for you as parents! I am excited to see how many minutes we can read as a class for this challenge!

Also, starting next week, we will be participating in the NLES Coin Wars. There was a flyer sent home earlier this week to explain all of the details about the coin wars. Please feel free to send in any coins that you have at any time next week! All of the money raised will be used to purchase books for OUR school! For every dollar that we raise as a school, Scholastic will donate a book to organizations like Kids in Distressed Situations and Kids in Need Foundation. Please consider helping out with this cause, providing books to a child who does not have them is so vital to their learning and this is a cause that is near and dear to my heart! The winners of the coin wars will be announced on February IIth. The Scholastic Book Fair is also coming up quickly and will be held the week of February 8. The PTO is hosting an Ice Cream Social on February 10 in conjunction with the book fair as well.
