Weekly Update

We have had a wonderful week in third grade!

Last week, I received information regarding a reading challenge sponsored by the South Bend Cubs. The challenge had actually begun on February 29th and runs until today, March 25th. Our school coordinator has extended the deadline for us due to the late arrival of the materials. In our classroom, students were able to use any minutes they had already read in the month of March towards their goals. The goals were as follows: 1st base - read 80 minutes, 2nd base - 100 minutes, 3rd base - 100 minutes, and home run - 100 minutes. Many students have already reached many of their goals. Once your student has reached all four goals, or the challenge ends, I will send home the booklet that accompanies this challenge. Upon getting a 'home run', students have earned a free ticket to a South Bend Cubs game. Information to get the free ticket is included in the booklet. Students can read towards their goal throughout spring break as well!

Our math lessons this week were primarily review from the material that we have covered so far this year. We reviewed place value, area and perimeter, polygons, multiplication and division, and fractions.

During reading, we practiced using context clues, main idea and supporting details, and analogies.
