Weekly Update

We are still participating in the WSBT I Love to Read Challenge! Please help your child keep track of the number of minutes they are reading each day by recording it on the February calendar in their red take-home folders! Students are welcome to read and record their minutes over the weekends as well!

During math block this week we have continued to focus on fractions. We have been working on finding equivalent fractions as well as finding the simplest form of fractions. We will be moving into another topic of study next week with perimeter.

Reading block this week was focused on comparing and contrasting information we read in a text. You can work on this at home by asking your child to compare two items and then contrast those same things.
