Weekly Update

We enjoyed a somewhat regular week for a change! Next week will begin our IREAD testing for third grade. Third graders will be provided with breakfast on the days we are testing. Please encourage your child to do their best on the test and to put forth their best effort, as this is all we ask of them! It is best for each student to have a good night's rest, follow a regular routine at home, and eat a healthy breakfast!

Throughout this past week, we continued to study area and perimeter during math time. These are skills that can be practiced at home with real life objects. The table in your dining room or a picture hanging on the wall can be measured to the nearest whole number and then your child can find the area and perimeter!
