Weekly Update

First, and foremost, I'd like to give a huge thank you to the parent volunteers who helped with our Fall Party last week! We enjoyed some delicious snacks and took part in some fun activities. Events like this would not be as successful without all of your support and help, so thank you!

Reading block this week will focus on identifying the theme of stories and text that we read. When we are working on identifying theme, we ask ourselves, "What is the life lesson (or moral) the author wants us to learn from this story?" We also worked on finding details in the text to help support the theme we identified.

Division continues to be our focus in math. This week we worked hard to practice deciding whether we should multiply or divide to solve word problems. Practicing the multiplication and division facts at home is a great way to reinforce these skills!
