Weekly Update

We have a new September reading goal! The monthly goal will be on each newsletter in the middle oval at the bottom of this page. Please encourage and support your child in their reading homework. They may read out loud to an adult or another child or read independently, any form of reading counts toward our 20 minutes of reading each night. Please be sure to put the number of minutes read on the date on the calendar in your child's red folder each night along with your initials.

This week in math we have been reviewing some of the skills we have been working on so far this year, including rounding to the nearest ten and hundred, as well as addition and subtraction with regrouping. Please do not hesitate to work on these skills at home as well!

Our literacy task this week focused on writing a personal narrative, or in other words, a story that was about ourselves. We discussed what a personal narrative was, looked at an example, created a rough draft, and then wrote our final draft piece. Through the literacy task, we also identified words with similar vowel sounds and ending sounds, as well as multi-syllable words.
